Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1 - 26	YES
	Claims	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1 - 26	YES
	Claims	NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

Claims 1-26 are considered to be novel and involve inventive step because no individual citation or obvious combination of citations teach or suggest "a memory aid comprising a display having a plurality of display zones, each display zone adapted to provide a display independently of the other display zones, each display zone capable of sequentially displaying the letters of an alphabet and a control adapted to cause the sequential display of the letters at each display zone", as claimed in the independent claim 1.

Claims 1-26 have been considered to have industrial applicability.

desired letter is found, then moving to the central display zone and then to the right hand display zone.

According to a sixth embodiment of the invention the device comprises a software package which can be installed into a computer which is able to provide 5 a display similar to that of the first or second or third embodiment and where the scrolling of the display at each display zone and be controlled from the keyboard of the computer and/or my means of a mouse or equivalent accessory.

According to a seventh embodiment of the invention the device comprises a programme which can be installed into a computer whereby the programme of 10 the software package is able to control the computer which is able to provide a display similar to that of the fourth or fifth embodiment and where the scrolling of the display at each display zone and be controlled from the keyboard of the computer and/or my means of a mouse or equivalent accessory.

According to a eighth embodiment of the invention the programme of the seventh 15 embodiment is incorporated into the processor of a mobile telephone (or cell phone) having a visual display, whereby the programme can be activated from the keypad of the telephone and operated by use of the keypad. According to the embodiment the programme is accessible from the menu of the telephone and can be available under the Extras or Options sub-directory. Once accessed 20 the display will display three (3) letter A's. The keypad can then be used to scroll through the letters of the alphabet at each location on the display in that:

- keys "1" and "7" can be used to scroll up and down through the left hand letters;
- keys 2 and 8 can be used to scroll up and down through the middle 25 letters; and
- keys 3 and 9 can be used to scroll up and down through the right hand letters.

The sequence of each set of letters corresponds to that of the previous embodiments

Throughout the specification, unless the context requires otherwise, the word "comprise" or variations such as "comprises" or "comprising", will be understood 5 to imply the inclusion of a stated integer or group of integers but not the exclusion of any other integer or group of integers.

It should be appreciated that the scope of the invention need not be limited to the particular scope of any of the embodiments or the applications referred to.
